

How can my prostate cancer experience transform millions of lives?

Stephen Fry: Actor, writer and presenter.

As one of the 500,000 men in the UK who has had prostate cancer, I'm joining the search for a cure. By sharing NHS patient data, we can give researchers the tools they need to treat and eventually cure this devastating disease. Anyone who's been diagnosed can sign up to share their information with the Prostate Progress initiative.
